That Time of Year Jul 17 2022 With the warmth and humor we've come to know, creator and host of A Prairie Home Companion shares his own remarkable story. This Time of Year, Garrison Keillor looks back on his life and recounts how a Brethren with writerly ambitions grew up in a small town on the Mississippi in the 1950s, seeing three good friends die young, turned to comedy and radio. Through a series of unreasonable lucky breaks, he founded A Prairie Home Companion and put himself on the line for a good life, including mistakes, regrets, and a few medical adventures. The show lasted forty-two years, 1,557 shows, and enjoyed the freedom to do as it pleased for over four million listeners every Saturday at 5 p.m. Central. He got to sing with Emmylou Harris and Renée Fleming and once sang two songs to the U.S. Supreme Court. He played a private eye and a cowboy, gave the news from his hometown, Lake Wobegon, and met Somali cabdrivers who'd learned English from listening to the show. He wrote bestselling novels, won a Grammy and a National Humanities Medal, and made a movie with Robert Altman with an alarming amount of improvisation. He says, "I was unemployable and managed to invent work for myself that I loved all my life, and that of that I married well. That's the secret, work and love. And I chose the right audience: impoverished Scots and Yorkshire farmers, good workers. I'm heading for eighty, but I still get up to write before dawn every day."

The Book of Guys Dec 30 2020 "Guys are in trouble these days," says Garrison Keillor. "Years ago, manhood was an opportunity for achievement and now it's just a problem to be overcome. Guys who once might have painted the Sistine Chapel ceiling are now trying to be Mr. O.K. All-Rite, the man who can bake a cherry pie, be passionate skillful way, and yet also lift them bales and tote that barge." This brilliant collection confirms Keillor's reputation as an ingenious storyteller and a very funny guy.

Pilgrims Apr 02 2021 Lake Wobegon goes to Italy in Garrison Keillor's latest Twitter. Wobegonians fly to Rome to decorate a war hero's grave, led by Marjorie Krebsbach with radio host Gary Keillor along for the ride. The pilgrimage is inspired by a phone call from an Italian woman seeking her Lake Wobegon roots and by a memoir of Paradise by a farm wife who found the secret of life and love in Italy. And by longing to win back the love of her husband Carl. Far from home, sitting in the middle of the Piazza Navona, the pilgrims talk about themselves, as they never could do in Chatterbox Café. "You're not going to write about this, I hope," says Irene Bunse. "Of course I am. I invented this town," says Mr. Keillor. "Oh my, aren't you something," replies.

hopeful. Love and travel, as well as wit and humor spice these tales of wishful wonder."--P. [4] of cover.

We Are Still Married Mar 01 2021 "Garrison Keillor made it possible, after twenty years of black humor...to be both funny and nice, hip and winsome, scathing and all in the flick of a single many-barbed quip—The Washington Post Book World “Keillor’s literary style is as flexible and assured as his vocal delivery. It can slip from mood to mood so subtly and quickly you’re never quite sure where you are.... [His] writing has the silvery slip of running water, so graceful and easy it’s hard to believe it can carry so much that is jagged and unresolved. His integrity lies in his not smoothing away those rough edges in the swift current of his prose; they’re bruisingly, sometimes cuttingly there.” —The Village Voice

Wobegon Boy Jan 23 2023 Garrison Keillor returns to Lake Wobegon in "a masterful portrait of the sort of small-town world that many of us Americans believe we grew up in or would have liked to. . . . A wonderfully readable tale".--"The Washington Post Book World". NPR sponsorships. Copyright © Libri GmbH. All rights reserved.

Happy to Be Here Apr 14 2022 “Keillor’s best stuff is clean (in the sense that lines are clean), down to earth, exquisitely good-hearted, highly ludicrous, and as labored as nitrous oxide.... This book will either leave you dumbfounded or happy—almost dumbly happy—to be anywhere” —The New York Times Book Review “His humor is cerebral and complex, a blend of romance and nostalgia; it sparkingly parodies the American (and human) condition.... His stories and satires glow with a sense of time and place.” —Washington Post

The Flower Boy Feb 18 2020 An accomplished debut, The Flower Boy is the tragicomic romantic story of people from two cultures, one ruling the other, and the human bonds that defy and nearly overcome social taboos. In the colonial society of 1930s Ceylon, the separation between servant and master is clearly drawn. Young Chandi, however, believes that the baby born to his mother’s mistress will be his friend. And, indeed, their friendship blossoms in the lush gardens of the tea plantation on which they live. The English and Ceylonese, are troubled by the friendship, but the English planter is won over by the children’s bond, and ultimately by Chandi’s mother, Premawathi. But the viceroy encroaches on their Eden. Beautifully observed, compellingly plotted, The Flower Boy is a compassionate novel of a lost world and those who struggled to hold on to it.

Lake Wobegon Summer Dec 10 2021 Meet fourteen-year-old Gary. A self-described "tree-toad," a sly and endearing geek, Gary has many unwieldy passions among them his cousin Kate, his Underwood typewriter and the soft-porn masterpieces of High School Orgies. The folks of Lake Wobegon don't have much patience for a kid with ungodly obsessions, and so Gary manages to filter the hormonal earthquake that is puberty and his hopeless devotion to glamorous, rebellious Kate through his family yarns. With every marvellous story he moves a few steps closer to becoming a man when Kate gets herself into trouble with the local baseball star, Gary also experiences the first pangs of a broken heart. With his trademark gift for treading "a line delicately between satire and sentiment" (Cleveland Plain Dealer), Garrison Keillor brilliantly captures a newly minted post-war America and delivers an unforgettable comedy about a writer coming of age in the rural Midwest.

In Search of Lake Wobegon Feb 12 2022 "This book combines text and image to reveal the real-life origins of the place where "the women are strong, the men are good, and the children above average." Keillor meditates on the enduring culture of the region and on the years he spent there as a young writer and an outsider. And a short story from Lake Wobegon, "October," appears here for the first time in print."--BOOK JACKET

O, What a Luxury Dec 18 2019 The first poetry collection written by New York Times–bestselling author Garrison Keillor, the celebrated radio host of A Prairie Home Companion. Garrison Keillor is known the world over for his funny, folksy stories from his beloved Lake Wobegon, and the legendary radio and stage performances of A Prairie Home Companion. And although he has edited several anthologies of his favorite poems, this volume forges a new path for him, as a poet of light verse. Here, Keillor writes his characteristic combination of humor and insight on love, modernity, nostalgia, politics, religion, and other facets of daily life. His verses are charming and playful, locating sublime song within the humdrum of being human—and "as in his best-selling fiction, the subject matter is the (very funny) stuff of the lumpen-bourgeois blue-collar life." (Booklist).

Lake Wobegon Days Aug 18 2022 "Lake Wobegon Days is about the way our beliefs, desires and fears tail off into abstractions--and get renewed from time to time. This book, unfolding Mr. Keillor's full design, is a genuine work of American history." —New York Times "A comic anatomy of what is small and ordinary and therefore potentially profound and universal in American life...Keillor's strength as a writer is to make the ordinary extraordinary." —Chicago Tribune "Keillor's laughs come dear, cheap, emerging from shared virtue and good character, from reassuring us of our neighborliness and strength....His true subject is how daily life is shot with grace. He writes a prose that can be turned to laughter, to tears...to compassion or satire in a hundred effects. He is a brilliant parodist." —San Francisco Chronicle

Francis With, a shy young man from North Dakota, entranced by radio, gets into WLT through his uncle Art and quickly becomes the Soderbjerg's right hand. Teaching Boys Who Struggle in Schools Jan 19 2020 Teaching Boys Who Struggle in Schools: Strategies That Turn Underachievers into Successful Learners responds to the growing concerns about a crisis in boys' academic achievement. Kathleen Palmer Cleveland seeks to help K-12 educators cut through the hype to get at the real issue: who is underachieving, why are they struggling, and how can educators respond to students' needs in new and productive ways? Cleveland presents findings from large-scale studies about how boys learn best and combines these findings with insights on ongoing social and learning-style factors that affect learning in the classroom, plus lesson plans and anecdotes from real teachers working across all grade levels and subject areas. Cleveland's Pathways to Re-Engagement represents the culmination of substantial research and personal experience. A flexible and practical framework for decision making in the classroom, the Pathways model seeks to * Replace the underachieving boy's negative attitudes about learning; * Reconnect each boy with school, with learning, and with a belief in himself as a competent learner; * Rebuild learning skills that lead to success in school and in life; and * Reduce the need for unproductive and distracting behaviors as a means of self-protection. Each aspect of the Pathways to Re-Engagement model offers educators a way to move underachievers from a position of weakness toward one of strength--giving them the tools to succeed in school and beyond.

The Lake Wobegon Virus Jun 04 2021 Bestselling author and humorist Garrison Keillor returns to one of America's most beloved mythical towns, beset by a contagion of alarming candor. A mysterious virus has infiltrated the good people of Lake Wobegon, transmitted via unpasteurized cheese made by a Norwegian bachelor farmer, the result of which is episodic loss of social inhibition. Mayor Alice, Father Wilmer, Pastor Liz, the Bunsens and Krebsbachs, formerly taciturn elders, burst into political rants, inappropriate confessions, and rhapsodic proclamations, while their teenagers witness the amazement. Meanwhile, a wealthy outsider is buying up farmland for a Keep America Truckin' motorway and amusement park, estimated to draw 2.2 million visitors a year. Clint Bunsen and Elena the hometown epidemiologist to the rescue, with a Fourth of July Living Flag and sweet corn feast for a finale. In his newest Lake Wobegon novel, Garrison Keillor takes us back to the small prairie town where for so long American readers and listeners have found laughter as well as the wry airing of our foibles and most familiar desires and fears—a town where, as we know, "all the women are beautiful and the men are good-looking, and all the children are above average."
